HISTORIC PHOTOS of IDAHO PANHANDLE

Kerl Family Home

In 1905, the land and buildings of Fort Sherman were sold at public auction. Two Spokane businessmen, Thomas Kerl and David Ham, purchased several acres of land, including the Fort Chapel and the post commander's spacious home. Kerl and his family lived in that house for almost 40 years. The photo above shows Kerl's Dodge sedan in front of the house in 1918. The old commanding officers' home was in use until it was demolished in 1957. The Fort Sherman Chapel, currently owned by the Museum of North Idaho, is still in use and is one of the oldest buildings in the State of Idaho.

Dave Longhine "The Outdoor Insider"

I hope you all had a great Memorial Weekend. I was glad to see good weather for all the families that came over to visit the many great places here in Eastern Washington. The highlight of my last week was a trip to the Snake and Palouse rivers.

Late last winter Leon Stattford, of Riverlife guide service, invited me to come down to the Snake River to fish for walleye, and I finally made it last week. My friends James Lebow and Ryan Harris and I met Leon at the Texas Rapids Recreation Area and then ran up to a spot below Little Goose Dam. Here we trolled a variety of crank baits for walleye. We didn't have to wait long to put the first walleye in the boat. Snake River walleye are of exceptional quality, and we landed fish that ranged in size from 15 to over 20 inches. The Snake is loaded with smallmouth bass, and we got a bunch of them while trolling crank baits. One of the options we talked about on this trip was exploring the Palouse River, and Leon was eager to show us this scenic area. He told us that the larger walleye had moved out of the Palouse to the Snake, but he assured us that we would catch a few, and we did. We also caught a lot of smallmouth bass, perch and even bluegill. The Palouse River gorge is one of the most scenic places I have fished in the state. If you Follow me on Facebook and subscribe to my YouTube channel you will see that I have posted the video of the trip. It is also on my Instagram site. This week's photo is of Leon and me with a few of the walleye we landed on the Snake River.

Free Fishing Weekend returns to Washington June 6–7, offering an opportunity for people across the state to fish for many species without buying a license. Licenses are still required to fish for or harvest salmon, steelhead, sturgeon, halibut, and all shellfish. All other fishing rules and regulations still apply. "Free Fishing Weekend gives people an easy entry point into fishing," said Kirt Hughes, Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW) fish management division manager. "You don't need to be an expert or own a boat to get started. There are lakes, shorelines, and fishing piers across the state where people can get out and give it a try." Some of the best statewide opportunities for Free Fishing Weekend include rainbow trout, largemouth and smallmouth bass, yellow perch, and other game fish in lakes. In 2026, WDFW staff are stocking 15.5 million trout and kokanee in more than 500 lowland lakes statewide. Anglers can find trout stocking information on WDFW's website. Lake-fishing anglers can also participate in the Trout Derby, with tagged derby trout stocked in more than 100 lakes and hundreds of prizes available. To see if a lake near you has been stocked with tagged trout, visit the WDFW website and the Trout Derby page. Also, keep an eye out for special events that some communities and local fishing organizations sponsor on the Free Fishing Weekend every year.

Once again the Quincy Valley Chamber of Commerce conducted a very successful Pike Minnow derby last weekend. Cat and her crew of volunteers ran the event like the veterans that they are, and the participants all had a great time. As everyone gathered on the deck and dined on the Tower Pizza that was provided as being part of the event, the results were being tallied. Nate Derrik, from Grant County PUD addressed the group and thanked them for their efforts to remove as many pike minnows as possible from the Columbia River. He reminded everyone that these predators feed on the salmon and steelhead smolts, and how important it is to the future of our fisheries in our region. There was a good representation of experienced pike minnow anglers and those new to the pursuit. There was a round of applause as each winner of the youth and adult categories went to claim their prizes. Awards were handed out for the Longest Fish, Shortest Fish and Heaviest Weight turned in. The list of the winners, including the grand prize of a Polaris side by side, from Chet's Honda-Polaris, can be viewed on Quincy Chamber's Facebook page.

Recently, my friends and I wanted to stock up on triploid rainbow trout for the smoker, so we traveled to the middle net pens on Rufus Woods. James Lebow launched his boat here and drove it up to his favorite spot at the upper pens. The plan was to get our fish and get back home early, so we started fishing with Power Bait. I got a fish pretty quickly, but the bite was so slow we decided to troll down below the pens with bottom bouncers and spinners with worms. This has produced both walleye and trout in the past, and Tyler Bergquist landed a 20-inch walleye below the middle pens. We checked out the last set of pens, and didn't mark anything, so we headed back to where we started. It wasn't a spectacular day of fishing, but we all measured our fish for the Rufus Woods Roundup fishing contest. We will also be able to enter our Method in the latest Mission, telling what we used to catch our fish. You can learn more about the Rufus Woods Roundup on the Anglers Atlas website, and you will want to get the MyCatch fish app on your phone and sign up. You could win a fifty dollar gift certificate in a variety of ways during the Rufus Woods Roundup.

The first question that people ask me when I see them when I am out and about is where have I been fishing lately. The second question is when do I get my new boat from Marks's Marine, in Hayden, Idaho. Well, I will know more about that later this week. I am traveling to Clarkston, Washington to visit the Thunder Jet plant, and I will get to see the Thunder Jet Luxor in construction. It will be a great opportunity to meet the folks that build these boats and actually see how they are put together. I want to again thank Mark's Marine and Thunder Jet for partnering with me to keep me on the water so I can continue to provide current information on the wonderful fishing opportunities throughout Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho.

SNEVA MEMORIAL BACK FOR 12TH TIME AT STATELINE

The Sneva brothers back in 1970 (L-R): Jan, Jerry, Tom and Edsol (Babe). The legacy of the family will be honored this weekend at Stateline Speedway. File photo

STATELINE, Idaho — For the 12th consecutive year Stateline Speedway will honor Spokane's first family of speed, with the Sneva Memorial, May 29 and 30.

Six classes of open wheel cars, among them including Inland Wing Sprints, Nostalgia Modifieds and WMRA midgets will pack the pits with over 100 cars.

"We were out of pit space last year," said TJ Sneva, son of the late Jerry Sneva and a driver himself, said on a KHQ-TV interview. "Pretty special, cool that it's grown," Sneva added.

Friday racing starts at 5 p.m. and 4 on Saturday.

"This is a way to honor the legend of the Sneva family and the support from them to continue the dream alive with motorsports alive in the community and the region," Stateline Speedway said in an email statement.

Tony Berry is a longtime driver who will be behind the wheel of cars in two different classes.

"The Sneva event is always the marquee open wheel event in the area and I'm thrilled to be able to participate in it again this year in both a WMRA midget and making a maiden voyage in a Can Am sprint car," Berry said in Facebook Messenger..

"I was able to win the inaugural event in a winged car and hoping to follow up this year in the Seidelman Racing #2 midget and 55 Can Am car," he added.

WENATCHEE 200 FEATURES KEVIN HARVICK | From WVSO Media

EAST WENATCHEE, Wash. — One of the Pacific Northwest's biggest short track events is set to take center stage on Saturday, May 30, as Wenatchee Valley's Super Oval hosts the richest one-day short track race in the West — the $25,000-to-win Plumb Perfect Wenatchee 200 Presented by GESA Credit Union.

Headlining the blockbuster event is NASCAR Cup Series Champion Kevin Harvick, who will make his highly anticipated return to the Pacific Northwest racing scene aboard the No. 29 entry. Harvick's appearance has generated national attention for the East Wenatchee quarter-mile and has quickly turned the Wenatchee 200 into one of the premier short track events on the West Coast.

The Wenatchee 200 will feature a stacked field of regional champions, marquee winners, rising young stars, and veteran Northwest legends battling for one of the biggest purses in western Super Late Model racing.

"This event has truly turned into something special," said WVSO General Manager Jeremy Anders. "To have Kevin Harvick racing here, combined with the depth of talent coming from across the Northwest and beyond, makes this one of the strongest fields we've ever assembled at Wenatchee Valley's Super Oval. Fans are going to witness an unforgettable night of racing."

Among the headline names entered are defending Wenatchee 200 winner Owen Riddle of Naches, Washington, who has captured nearly every marquee Super Late Model race in the Northwest, including the Montana 200, Apple Cup, Fall Classic, and Summer Showdown.

Also entered is Quincy, Washington's Kasey Kleyn, the reigning Northwest Super Late Model Series champion and Fall Classic winner, who recently signed a deal to begin NASCAR Truck Series competition.

Past Wenatchee 200 winner Kole Raz of Lake Oswego, Oregon returns looking to add another signature WVSO victory to his résumé after becoming one of the top young stars in Northwest Super Late Model racing.

Another former Wenatchee 200 winner, Evan Goetz of Okanogan, Washington, is also entered and looking to defend home turf against one of the deepest fields assembled in event history.

Fans will also see Bakersfield, California's Tayler Mayhew, the current CARS Tour West points leader, who has quickly become one of the top contenders on the West Coast Super Late Model scene and enters Wenatchee carrying major momentum into the $25,000-to-win showdown.

Spokane's Haeden Plybon returns to Wenatchee looking to add another signature victory to his résumé after earning multiple major wins at WVSO, including two Leonard Evans Memorial victories and a Northwest Super Late Model championship.

California standout Dylan Zampa has also officially entered the Wenatchee 200. The Napa, California driver has quickly become one of the rising stars of West Coast Super Late Model racing and adds even more firepower to an already loaded field.

The field also includes national and regional standouts from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, North Carolina, Montana, California, Colorado, and Arizona, showcasing the growing reach of the Wenatchee 200.
